PREFACE

This book is the publication of the service indexes, which, in conjunction with the research indexes published serially in The Magazine of American Genealogy, constitute the files of The National Clearing House for Genealogical Information.

In card index form, each of the indexes in this book has already proved to be of inestimable value as genealogical aids to many thousands of inquirers. In printed form, within the confines of a handy reference volume, their value will be enhanced manyfold because they will thus become available to the interested public throughout the country.

These indexes have been in course of compilation over a period of several years, but it is not claimed for them that they are complete as yet. Indeed, such lists and indexes probably never can be completed because the rapidly growing interest in genealogy is absorbing the attention of increasing numbers every year, and such indexes as these will constantly cumulate and necessitate periodical publication to keep them up to date. But they are offered as the very best aids that can be given at this time, and they will improve and increase in usefulness as they expand in numbers and extent.

Therefore, it is expected to revise, amend and reissue this Handbook annually, as a part of The Institute's program to afford the best available genealogical research and service facilities to its members and to the American public generally.

With the publication of a revised and amended edition in view every person interested in fostering genealogical work as a whole is cordially invited to suggest names and other information for inclusion, as well as suggestions for improvement in the plan and scope of The Handbook of American Genealogy.

Acknowledgment is made of the invaluable aid accorded The Institute in the compilation of this Handbook by many hundreds of librarians, the regents or presidents of many hereditary societies, and others, and it is hoped that their generous co-operation has been merited by the genealogical aid this book will be to their patrons, to their members, and to themselves.

Posterity will be indebted to the members of The Institute of American Genealogy for their co-operation and support, which alone makes this work possible.

THE INSTITUTE OF AMERICAN GENEALOGY

The National Clearing House for Genealogical Information
(Not for profit)

The Institute of American Genealogy is designed to be the National Clearing House for Genealogical Information.

It was founded on the principle that knowledge of one's ancestry is a birthright and that genealogical data should be made accessible to all.

It has only one purpose, and that is to render complete genealogical service, to afford every American all available facilities for finding lineages with the least expenditure of time, effort and money.

It is for those who know little about their ancestors and wish to trace them, and for those who know much about their ancestry and wish to find more.

It is also for those who know nothing about their ancestors but wish to begin a record of the present generations upon which to build an American lineage for posterity.

The Institute aims to co-ordinate the genealogical research work of the various hereditary, genealogical, family, and historical associations which are seriously endeavoring to render service, by affording each one the facilities of its Master Indexes, and otherwise in the same manner that a parent organization co-ordinates and co-operates with its state societies and local chapters.

As the REGISTRY OF AMERICAN PEDIGREES, it has already filed and indexed over 100,000 lineages of leading American families. These will be published in The Compendium of American Genealogy as rapidly as possible.

It is gathering genealogical data, especially unpublished, privately owned manuscripts and charts, and indexing these, as well as unindexed books, whenever these are made available.

These constantly cumulative indexes, together with those received from its affiliated societies and libraries, from its chapters, individual members, and others, comprise the Master Indexes and constitute The National Clearing House for Genealogical Information.

These Master Indexes are being published serially in alphabetical order in The Magazine of American Genealogy in order to make them available to members as rapidly as they can be compiled. About 6,500 surnames have been treated in Numbers 1 to 21 of The Magazine to date (January, 1932).

The Institute is now the largest genealogical organization in America, and the most active in fostering genealogical interest, research, compilation and publication. It has chapters in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dallas, New Orleans, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Atlanta, and others are forming.

It is not expected to be a commercial enterprise, but it is expected to be self-sustaining through revenue derived from membership fees and for services rendered.

Its publications cover all phases of genealogy. The Compendium of American Genealogy and The Magazine of American Genealogy have been named the first and second general reference sources in genealogy by a committee on library co-operation, and these have a wider circulation among public and institutional libraries than all other general genealogical publications combined.

The Institute invites the support, contributions of family data, and memberships, of those Americans interested in writing and preserving for posterity the records of American Genealogy.

MEMBERSHIP

Membership in The Institute of American Genealogy affords its members, resident anywhere, practically the combined facilities of the best genealogical libraries in the country, and entitles, among other things, to:

1—Annual subscription to The Magazine of American Genealogy, equal to two 500-page volumes on genealogy.

2—The Handbook of American Genealogy.

3—Recourse to the most extensive genealogical indexes and files extant, constituting The National Clearing House for Genealogical Information.

4—Advice and suggestions on all phases of genealogical research, compilation, correspondence and publication by a trained staff.

5—Genealogical "want ads" published in the Notes and Queries section of The Magazine of American Genealogy without cost.

6—Multigraphed form letters, questionnaires, etc., for genealogical correspondence.

7—Membership emblem seals, which, attached to genealogical correspondence, serve to promote co-operation between members and others.

8—Affords the opportunity to members to preserve their lineage records in print in The Compendium of American Genealogy (the Standard Genealogical Encyclopedia of The First Families of America).

Altogether, the most complete, efficient, and effective genealogical service that can be rendered to the individual, to the library and to the public.

Membership in The Institute of American Genealogy (Life $100; annual $10), includes The Magazine of American Genealogy and The Handbook of American Genealogy, without additional cost.

Address applications for membership (see page 383) to: The Secretary to the Council,

FIRST STEPS IN GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH

"How can I find?" is perhaps the most frequently propounded question in genealogy, and it is becoming ever more frequent with the rapidly increasing interest in the subject.

The professional and the avocational or experienced amateur genealogists find the answers to most of their problems, and these will not be interested in the "First Steps" given here, which are designed to aid the novice in his search, and to stimulate to active effort those who have long intended to compile their records "sometime."

There are no rules governing genealogical research, but there are systematic, progressive steps which will aid the novice in his work, as there are certain "tools" which hold the promise of the best results with the least expenditure of time, effort and money. And it is the object to outline these steps and to name these "tools" for the benefit of the novice. Having covered these, the next steps will suggest themselves logically.

The study, search and compilation, whether of a single lineage or of a complete family genealogy with its wide ramifications, should be approached with a lively sense of responsibility for the authenticity of the data recorded, and that facts alone have any place in its composition.

Family traditions and anecdotes have their place in family history and should be faithfully recorded, with such comments as to their origin as may be desirable, but these should be labeled as traditions and anecdotes, and not as facts.

A "Family Genealogy" may be defined as a history of an entire family, including all the descendants in each generation of descent from the immigrant ancestor of that family, as completely as is possible to trace it. It is the combination of the lineages of numerous family units of a given surname. It may or may not include collateral branches, the intermarried families, of the main stem.

A "Family Lineage" is a line of descent in successive generations from the earliest known ancestor, down to, and including one's own family unit. It may be a lineage in descent from father to son in each generation, or it may be from father to daughter in one or more generations, with the consequent change of surname thru the intermarriage. It may include a record of births, marriages and deaths of all the children of each ancestor, but these great uncles and aunts have no particular bearing on one's own lineage, except that their records may lend weight to the evidence of descent, or add interesting side-lights about the family as a whole.

The earlier generations of many, if, indeed, not most, of the Colonial families are well established and of record, not only in the thousands of printed family genealogies and manuscripts deposited in genealogical and other libraries, but many scores of thousands of lineages are on file in the archives of the hereditary societies.

However, it must be emphasized that while printed and manuscript genealogies are invaluable as clues, they should only be accepted subject to verification by original records, viz.: court, church, cemetery, Bible and other records.

It may be stated that there is no such a thing as a perfectly complete genealogy, nor an absolutely accurate genealogy. The human factor enters into the composition of it too greatly to produce a perfect work and despite the utmost care on the part of the genealogist, the fallibility of the printer or typist is a matter to reckon with. Besides, what may have been accepted as documentary evidence yesterday is only too often disproved by later research. For this reason many lineages are rejected by hereditary societies at the present time which have been accepted in the past. Nevertheless, the printed and manuscript genealogies are the first source in beginning a search.

BEGIN WITH YOURSELF

More frequently than not, the greater difficulty is to find a near ancestor, that is, a great-grandfather or great-great-grandfather, than the more remote ones. Therefore, begin the search upon the solid foundation of known facts, and this may best be accomplished by beginning with yourself and work BACKWARD toward your father, your grandfather, and so on.

RECORD FORMS

To the beginner we can do no better than to recommend the purchase of a copy of the Lineage Record Book (Style A), which provides space for four complete lineages (paternal and maternal) for twelve generations each (see specimen pages under "Record Forms," pp. 29, 30, 31). This book also gives detailed instructions how to enter the data for each generation.

CORRESPONDENCE FOR INFORMATION

Living kinsfolk are the best sources of information for the near generations and frequently have or know where further information may be procured.

Assuming that you have all the data about your parents, and must begin your search with your grandparents, begin correspondence with your nearest kinsfolk, and nearest to your grandfather, or grandmother, as the case may be, which would be your uncles, aunts and cousins. Write your questions in the form of an individual questionnaire (see specimen, page 28).

In requesting the aid of a genealogist, or kinsfolk, always give all the information you may have, names, dates and places of birth, marriages and deaths, places of residence, occupation, religion, etc., any item of which, in the hands of an experienced genealogist, may afford a clue leading to other clues. Always enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

ADDRESSES OF KINSFOLK

If the addresses of uncles, aunts and cousins are not known, but if they or their children are believed to reside in a certain locality, the aid of a local searcher in or near that locality should be solicited to consult city and telephone directories, etc.

CHURCH, CEMETERY, COURTHOUSE RECORDS

For copies of birth, baptism, marriage, death certificates, wills, deeds, etc., consult a local genealogist as close to the city as possible in which the information may be available (See Geographical Register, pages 281 to 350).

SOURCES OF INFORMATION

While exhausting all means of procuring information by correspondence with kinsfolk and others, consult the section "Genealogies in Course of Compilation" (pages 33 to 104), to find whether or not a genealogy in which you are interested is now being compiled. If so, write to the genealogist referred to. The specimen form letters and questionnaire on pages 23 to 28 may be found helpful for this correspondence.

FAMILY ASSOCIATIONS

There are now about 521 family genealogy associations in this country organized for the purpose of gathering genealogical data on particular families. Next to kinsfolk, these are doubtless the best sources of information, especially for the earlier generations. These associations also solicit data from every member of the family and would welcome yours. This list of Family Associations is included as a part of the "Genealogies in Course of Compilation" (pp. 33-104).

FAMILY GENEALOGIES

Determine whether or not a genealogy has been published on your family surname. There are now about 8,500 different family genealogies published, most of which include collateral branches. One or more of them may include your own lineage down to your great-grandfather, grandfather, or even your father. A search should determine this. An alphabetical index of all the lineages in all the printed family genealogies, manuscripts, etc., available, is now in course of compilation, and is being published sectionally in The Magazine of American Genealogy. Consult this also.

REFERENCE SOURCES

Besides Family Genealogies there are hundreds of books, national or general, sectional and colonial, which are regarded as excellent reference sources and very often furnish clues to further information. Only those of national and colonial scope can be mentioned in this list, but many county and town histories and genealogies are available in local libraries. Many of these books contain valuable data not to be found elsewhere, but these should be accepted only as clues. Local genealogists have access to these.

GENERAL REFERENCE SOURCES

A questionnaire on the subject determined that the most frequently called for general genealogical reference books of national scope in the public libraries are, in the order named:

- 1—The Compendium of American Genealogy (The Standard Genealogical Encyclopedia of the First Families of America), 4 volumes published to 1931; contain over 29,000 American lineages from the first ancestor in America down to the present generations; indexes include the names of upward of a quarter of a million of ancestors. Available in many hundreds of the smaller as well as all the large public libraries.
- 2—The Magazine of American Genealogy (current), each number contains a consecutive section of the alphabet and includes all the data available to The Institute for each section on: a—The Derivations of Surnames, where and when they originated, the meaning, the root of the word and the first known record of the name; b—Heraldry, an alphabetical list of coats of arms, illustrated and blazoned; c—Immigrants to America before 1750, when and where they settled, biographies, marriages and children; d—Soldiers and Sailors in the American Revolution, with a - record of their services; e—Index to American Lineages; f—Bibliography of American Genealogy; g—Notes and Queries. Available in many hundreds of smaller libraries and all the large libraries.

- 3—Daughters of the American Revolution Lineage Books, also two volumes of indexes to same. Available in hundreds of public libraries and D.A.R. chapter libraries.
 - 4—Index to American Genealogies (Munsell), 1900, 08.
 - 5—Heads of Families taken at the First Census of the United States, 1790.
 - 6—Original Lists of Persons of Quality who went from Great Britain to the American Plantations, 1600-1700 (Hotten), 1880.
 - 7—Genealogical Guide to the Early Settlers of America (Whittemore).
 - 8—American Ancestry; giving the name and descent in the male line of Americans whose ancestors settled in the United States previous to the Declaration of Independence, A.D. 1776 (Hughes), 1887.
 - 9—Colonial Families of the United States of America (Mackenzie), 7 volumes.
 - 10—Historical Register of Officers of the Continental Army during the War of the Revolution (Heitman), 1893.

In addition to these the Newberry Library, Chicago, has compiled an exhaustive and extremely valuable card index of genealogical data contained in books, manuscripts and magazines, available to visitors.

REVOLUTIONARY RECORDS

To answer the frequent questions about the number of participants in the Revolution, we can do no better than to reprint the statement and summary contained in Heitman's Historical Register and Dictionary of the United States Army:

"The exact number of men in the Continental Establishment furnished by each State in the War of the Revolution is not known, but an approximate estimate made by Colonel Pierce, Paymaster-General of the Continental Army, and the Treasury accountants in 1787 is as shown in the first column of this table; many of these, however, served two or more times. In addition, however, all the States furnished regiments or independent battalions or companies of State troops, militia, rangers, riflemen, etc., for brief services, who were called out to assist the Continental Army in emergencies, or were raised to protect and defend their own States, many of whom were in service at two or more periods. The exact number thus furnished for short periods of service can not be given, but upon examination of various estimates I believe the figures shown in the second column of the table to be, in round figures, approximately correct.

	Continental Army	State troops, militia, etc.	Total
New Hampshire	12,497	4,000	16,497
Massachusetts	67,907	20,000	87,907
Rhode Island	5,908	4,000	9,908
Connecticut	31,939	9,000	40,939
New York	17,781	10,000	27,781
New Jersey	10,726	7,000	17,726
Pennsylvania	25,678	10,000	35,678
Delaware	2,386	1,000	3,386
Maryland	13,912	9,000	22,912
Virginia	26,678	30,000	56,678
North Carolina	7,263	13,000	20,263
South Carolina	6,417	20,000	26,417
Georgia	2,679	8,000	10,679
Total	231,771	145,000	376,771

"The total here given is excessive as to the number that served in the Army, for many served two, three, and even more terms. Many of the men who entered the service in 1775 reentered in 1776, again in 1777, and again in 1780, and were therefore counted two, three or more times, but from the best information attainable it is fair to assume that the number of individuals actually engaged in the military service during the war did not exceed 250,000. There is nothing of record showing the casualties sustained."

REVOLUTIONARY REFERENCE SOURCES

Following is a partial list of the books consulted in the compilation of the alphabetical List of Soldiers and Sailors in the American Revolution in The Magazine of American Genealogy (the only complete list being compiled). Most of these books are out of print but they should be available in genealogical libraries and to local genealogists.

GENERAL

Compendium of American Genealogy; Magazine of American Genealogy; D.A.R. Lineage Books; Revolutionary Pension Rolls, 5 volumes; American State Papers, 1789-1815; Records of the Revolutionary War (Saffel); Census of Pensioners for Revolutionary Military Service, 1841; American Archives (Force), 9 volumes; House List of Private Claims, 3 volumes; Rolls of the Soldiers in the Revolutionary War, 1775-83 (Goodrich), 1904; Historical Register of Officers of the Continental Army During the War of the Revolution (Heitman); Historical Register and Dictionary of the U.S.A., 1789-1903 (Heitman); Army Register of the U.S. from 1776-1887 (Hamersly); List of the Army of the U.S. from 1779-1900; American Prisoners of the Revolution (Dandridge), 1911; List of Officers of the U.S. Navy, 1776-1900 (Hamersly); Navy of the United States, 1775-1853 (Emmons); List of Officers of the Navy of the U.S. and of the Marine Corps from 1775-1900 (Callahan); Naval History Society of the U.S., Publications, 5 volumes; Naval Records of the American Revolution (Lincoln), 1906; Navy of the American Revolution (Paullin), 1906; Medical Men of the Revolution (Toner), 1876; Pictorial Field Book of the Revolution (Lossing), 2 volumes, 1859; also write to U.S. Pension Bureau. Dr. G. M. Brumbaugh, 905 Massachusetts Av. N.W., Washington, D.C., is preparing for publication (1932), hitherto unknown and unpublished source material, under the title "Revolutionary War Records, Navy, Marine, Privateer and Army, Pension Applications and Land Warrants of the Continental and State Forces, mostly from original sources."

COLONY REVOLUTIONARY SOURCES

Besides the general colony-wide references given herewith there are sectional, county, town, regimental and other local sources for each colony, too numerous to mention in these lists, which are available to local genealogists.

FORM LETTERS

Because it may not be known definitely that a correspondent has the data desired, or that he will respond to a request for it, it is frequently advisable to send an identical letter requesting the same information to several persons in the same mail, in order to save time. The use of a "form letter" will simplify this correspondence and should be resorted to when several letters are to be mailed.

Obviously, it is well nigh impossible to compose a form letter suitable for all purposes or questions, especially if they are to be addressed to near relations. But the following letters may suggest the form desired.

Letter No. 1 is for near relations.

Letter No. 2 is for probable kinsfolk.

Letter No. 3 is for probable kinsfolk.

Letter No. 4 is request for information.

Letter No. 5 is request for genealogical service.

A dozen of any of the form letters illustrated, but altered in details to meet individual requirements, will be furnished to members of The Institute on receipt of 8c in postage stamps to cover mailing cost. Non-members may purchase any of these letters at 60c for the first dozen, plus mailing cost. These will be multigraphed on a personal letterhead (standard size 8½x11), if the letterhead is furnished for the purpose, otherwise a good quality of white bond paper will be used.

LETTER NO. 1.

Mr. John Barnes,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Mr. Barnes:

I am endeavoring to compile my lineage back to my immigrant Barnes ancestor in America, and being aware that you are also one of the descendants of our common great-grandfather, John, I am writing for any information you may have about him and his ancestors.

I have filled out the enclosed questionnaire with all the information I have, some of which may be new to you, and, of course, you are welcome to it. I trust you will kindly supplement this if possible, and remail it to me in the stamped return envelope herewith.

If, in addition, you have any further data, or can inform me where, or from whom any additional information may be procured, or the names and addresses of other descendants, and the source of your information, your helpfulness will be greatly appreciated. I shall be happy to reciprocate if I can.

Very truly yours,

LETTER NO. 2.

Mr. John Barnes,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Mr. Barnes:

In The Handbook of American Genealogy I find you are interested in the Barnes family of which I also am a member, and I shall be pleased to co-operate with you in the compilation of the Barnes genealogy.

I am particularly interested in that branch of the family descended from Thomas Barnes (1636-79), of Boston, Mass., and am seeking information about my great-grandfather, Henry Barnes, who lived and died in Middlesex County, Mass., who was believed to have been descended from John.

The enclosed questionnaire contains all the information I know about him. I am sending it to you in the hope that it may be of interest, also that you may be able to add to it. If you will kindly inform me how I can reciprocate, I shall be pleased to do so if possible. Stamped return envelope enclosed.

Very truly yours,

LETTER NO. 3.

Barnes Kinsman:

I have undertaken the compilation of a genealogy of the descendants of the immigrant Thomas Barnes (1636-79), of Boston, Mass., and I wish to inquire if you are one of his descendants, and, if so, to enlist your co-operation.

If you are a descendant please fill out the enclosed questionnaire with data pertaining to your own family unit as fully as possible and remail it to me in the stamped return envelope herewith. If you are not a descendant kindly inform me in order that I may correct my files.

If, in addition to your own family, you have any further data, or can inform me where, or from whom any further information may be procured, or the names and addresses of other members of the family, your helpfulness will be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

LETTER NO. 4.

Mr. John Doe,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:

I find your name registered in The Handbook of American Genealogy as a local genealogist.

I wish to find the..... record of my father,

....., who lived in.....

This record should be on file in the archives of.....,
in

Please inform me whether or not you can undertake to make the search for this record, also your estimate as to the time it would require and the probable cost for your services.

Stamped return envelope for your response.

Very truly yours,

In response to the above:

LETTER NO. 5.

Mr. John Doe,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:

In The Handbook of American Genealogy I find that you are registered for genealogical research, and having need of a search in your county, the enclosed questionnaire is sent to you with the request for your services in the effort to complete the data called for.

All the information known to me about the ancestor named is given in the questionnaire and the blank spaces show the data desired.

You are hereby commissioned to search local records and any other available records in County, within the cost to me of $....., of which amount I enclose $..... on account.

If any other information about this man's ancestors or his descendants is available to you please inform me.

Upon completion of your search, or, having reached the limit of the time you can give to it within the fee named, you will please return the questionnaire with your report. On receipt of it I agree to remit the balance due you for your services.

Very truly yours,

INDIVIDUAL QUESTIONNAIRE

The preparation of a questionnaire is a very important matter and requires careful study in order to include all the information desired, and to receive it in logical sequence.

The specimen questionnaire (see page 28), soliciting information about one ancestor and his family unit, was prepared for mailing to kinsfolk and to local genealogists.

Other questionnaires, embodying complete lineages and complete family data, such as those used in the compilation of The Compendium of American Genealogy, have also been prepared, but these are too large to be illustrated herewith. However, specimens are available on request and The Institute will undertake to supply them in quantities for special purposes.

A dozen multigraphed copies of the Individual Questionnaire illustrated, but altered in details to meet individual requirements, will be furnished to members of The Institute on receipt of 8c in postage stamps to cover mailing cost. Non-members may purchase them at 60c for the first dozen, plus mailing cost.

STANDARD RECORD FORMS

Various forms and charts have been devised for genealogical records but for the most part they are limited to bare outlines of lineages and cannot provide sufficient space for anything except a name and year of birth, marriage and decease of each ancestor in the direct line. Indeed, it is impossible to devise a record form which would meet all requirements, but it is believed that the LINEAGE RECORD BOOK serves the purpose as fully as it is possible to make any record form do so.

The LINEAGE RECORD BOOK was designed especially to aid the beginner in tracing lineages and recording family data systematically and in chronological order, but thru its extensive use by thousands of experienced genealogists it has come to be regarded as the standard for this purpose.

It has the advantage over other systems in that a double page (left and right hand pages), may be used two ways, viz.: either to record a complete lineage of 10 generations on each double page (if all the children of each ancestor are not recorded), and if it is used in this manner it has space for 48 lineages; or, each double page may be used for the entire family unit of each ancestor in line of descent (space for 10 children and their marriages), and for 12 generations in a lineage.

In this book 24 pages for each lineage of 12 generations form a separate section. Four of these sections comprise the book, together with other sections providing space for Coats of Arms, Bibliography, Derivation of the Name, History of the Family Abroad, Notes, and an Index, the entire book comprising 144 pages.

Each section is fastened securely by a patented device but it may be removed at will, and the cover permits the addition of six extra lineage sections if they are desired. Size of page $7\frac{1}{2} \times 10\frac{1}{2}$. The cover is semi-flexible, bound in dark blue fabrikoid, which will outwear leather. Published and for sale by The Institute of American Genealogy. Price \$4.50 per copy (Extra sections 25c each). Reduced illustrations of left hand and right hand pages (a double page), are reproduced herewith.

The Magazine of American Genealogy

THE MAGAZINE OF AMERICAN GENEALOGY is the published report of the contents of the Master Indexes of The National Clearing House for Genealogical Information. It is a series of indexes covering the principal phases of genealogy.

Each issue contains a systematically arranged series of separate and distinct sections dealing with the several subjects embraced by genealogy. The sections and subjects are:

Section I, Institute notes and articles.

Section II, Derivation of Surnames. An alphabetical list of surnames with a synopsis of their classification, meaning and derivation, the root of the word, and the first known record of the name.

Section III, Heraldry. An alphabetical list of the Coats of Arms, illustrated and blazoned, as found applied to American Genealogy. Numbers 1 and 2 of The Magazine contain a verbatim reprint of Sir Bernard Burke's history of heraldry, glossary of armory and dictionary of terms used in heraldry. The illustrations and blazonry of Coats of Arms begin alphabetically in Number 3.

Section IV, Immigrants to America before 1750. An alphabetical list of immigrants to all the colonies before 1750, when and where they settled, biographies, marriages and children.

Section V, Soldiers and Sailors in the American Revolution. The lists contained in 130 volumes of federal, colonial, state and other records, have been combined in one alphabetical index of all the participants from the Original Thirteen Colonies, with a record of their services.

Section VI, Index to American Lineages. This Master Index will afford the most direct clues for American lineages ever compiled, because it will eventually include the lineages contained in all the printed family genealogies, manuscripts, charts, questionnaires, and the other sources available to The Institute. This is the most exhaustive genealogical index ever attempted. It will include lineages in virtually EVERY old American family name.

Section VII, Bibliography of American Genealogy. An alphabetical list of American and English genealogies, manuscripts, charts and kindred works; includes about 14,000 titles.

Section VIII, Notes and Queries. This section is open to members of The Institute without charge.

The text matter in each section and in each issue is in alphabetical order. Each of the eight sections is page numbered independently and consecutively, so that at the end of the alphabet the same sections in the series of magazines may be brought together into binders to form alphabetically arranged and consecutively paged volumes.

When the alphabet has been completed, this series of magazines will constitute the most comprehensive GENEALOGICAL SOURCE LIBRARY ever devised. It will probably comprise over 70 volumes of 500 pages each.

The Magazine of American Genealogy may be found in most public and institutional libraries and SHOULD BE CONSULTED FIRST FOR ALL GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH, because in its alphabetical order EVERY American surname will be treated in one or more of the sections.

Number 1 is the basic number of the series; it contains the sectional title pages, explanatory prefaces, source references and abbreviations, which are the "keys" to the system employed in this work and to the data in all succeeding numbers; these will be of aid to anyone interested in genealogy.

Number 1 was published August, 1929, beginning the alphabet with Aa-Ac. Each issue will contain a succeeding segment of the alphabet to the end.

Reservations by non-members of The Institute, for single numbers or several different numbers of The Magazine containing data on particular family names or certain portions of the alphabet, must be made in advance of publication. Price $1.50 per copy, with the reservation. Back numbers are also available.

Address reservations for certain numbers of The Magazine to:

GENEALOGIES

IN COURSE OF COMPILATION

Herewith is an alphabetical list of 7,714 surnames, every one of which is the subject of research at the present time on the part of one or more genealogists, or a family association, or both.

The daily use of this list as a card index over a period of years has demonstrated its great value in affording contact between persons interested in the same families, and such contact has proved to be the most practical genealogical aid that can be rendered.

The fact that every person referred to by letter-number in this list is either a professional, an experienced avocational or family genealogist, and the inclusion in the list of all the active family associations, makes this the best possible source of information available on the names given.

Each genealogist either has in his possession and offers data or is seeking data on the names included in his record, and, of course, will welcome correspondence on the subject. Therefore, the services of the professionals and the co-operative offers of exchange of data should be utilized to the fullest possible extent.

If several surnames are found in this list which suggest correspondence, the specimen form letters and questionnaire shown elsewhere might be employed to good advantage. Members of The Institute will find that their membership emblems on their stationery will serve as an introduction to their fellow-member correspondents.

This list also discloses the fact that many persons have been duplicating each other's efforts, doubtless without having been aware of it, but further duplication of research on the names listed may now be avoided by comparison or exchange of data compiled to date.

The letter-numbers following the surnames in this list refer to the records in the Who's Who in Genealogy section in this Handbook, in which records further information appears.

For illustration, the letter-number after the first surname in this list (Abbe-B152), refers to the Who's Who in Genealogy record of Mr. Edwin Welch Burch.

By referring to Mr. Burch's record, it will be found that the key letters (b-c-e) precede his name. The explanation of the meaning of these letters is given at the beginning of that section, and reference to it shows that: (b)-Mr. Burch is an avocational genealogist; (c)-is a family genealogist; and (e)-offers to exchange data.

The letters preceding the names of the Family Associations in this list mean:

r-Invites contribution of data.
s-Will aid in tracing lineages.
t-Genealogy being compiled.
u-Genealogy in manuscript.

v-Genealogy printed.
w-Publishes a periodical.
y-No report furnished.

GENEALOGISTS

The proof, if any were needed, that genealogy has become a factor in the patriotic and historical affairs of America, is presented in the list of 1,681 men and women included in the Who's Who in Genealogy section of this Handbook, who are devoting their time, wholly or in part, to searching out, compiling and preserving the genealogical records of the nation.

Everyone engaged in this work must have felt the need of a "Who's Who" in this field. It is an essential to a better understanding among the genealogists themselves, and the information about the work of each will certainly strengthen the bond of common interest and engender a spirit of friendly co-operation among those who have the best interests of the work at heart.

The Institute receives many requests from prospective clients to recommend genealogists or local searchers in all parts of the country. In order to respond to these requests, also in behalf of the proposed organization of an Association of Genealogists, The Institute has made every reasonable effort by persistent inquiry to procure a confidential report on the methods and integrity of every professional genealogist known to it, and every one in this list has been recommended as conscientious and trustworthy by one or more clients, or others acquainted with the genealogist or his work.

A critical student of this list may miss some names which doubtless should be here, but, if so, it is because no satisfactory report could be obtained. A few erstwhile prominent genealogists have been omitted, some at their own requests, because they are admittedly superannuated, and a number of names and records received have been omitted for other reasons. On the whole, it is believed that the names included represent the progressive leadership in all phases of genealogy.

The very great increase in public interest in genealogy, especially within the past decade, has attracted quite a number of recruits to engage in the work professionally. These are for the most part of a younger generation and they bring into their work a commendable virility, enthusiasm and progressive spirit. Most of these are well qualified and can render valuable assistance, especially in their own localities because of their knowledge of local history and families, and these have been included.

But there are some, and it is inevitable that the work will attract others, who, if their compilations or correspondence may be taken as the criterion, are quite evidently not qualified, either by experience, training, ability or temperament, and in the interest of the public, no less than of the profession, these should be excluded from any list of genealogists.

While The Institute is deeply interested in raising the ethical standards of the profession, its chief interest lies in the protection of the public from exploitation by unscrupulous charlatans, and it will welcome reports enabling it to keep future editions of Who's Who in Genealogy as free from errors of inclusion as possible.

As this large list shows, the great majority of the genealogists are willing to cooperate in the movement to organize an Association of Genealogists, and bringing these leaders together in this manner is the first step in that direction.

The movement for the organization of an Association of Genealogists is outlined in Numbers 14 and 15 of The Magazine of American Genealogy, and it is hoped that the plan may be carried into effect during the present year.

Suggestions of names of professional, avocational and family genealogists, together with available information about them, or suggestions for improvements in future publications of the Who's Who in Genealogy section will be thankfully received.

WHO'S WHO IN GENEALOGY

A biographical-genealogical record of the leading professional, avocational and family genealogists of America and abroad.

The surnames mentioned in the Who's Who in Genealogy records as being the subject of research have been given the same letter-number as the bold face one at the beginning of each record, and they are included in alphabetical sequence with this number in the preceding section, Genealogies in Course of Compilation.

The explanation of the meaning of the light face letters in parenthesis (a-b-c), follows:

a—Genealogy profession.
b—Genealogy avocation.
c—Family genealogist.
d—On Institute's list of genealogists.
e—Offers to exchange data.
f—Invites correspondence.
g—Specializes in D.A.R. lineages.
h—Specializes in Mayflower lineages.

i—Specializes in all hereditary society lineages.
j—Desires local research work only.
k—Desires research work anywhere.
l—See also geographical list.
m—Information refused.
n—No response to repeated requests for information.
o—Discourages correspondence.

THE GEOGRAPHICAL REGISTER

That interest in genealogy is no longer confined to the Eastern and Southern states but has become nation-wide, is forcefully demonstrated by the following Geographical Register which includes 3,475 genealogists and record searchers in 1,331 counties thruout the 48 states of the Union.

Next to the list of "Genealogies in Course of Compilation," this Geographical Register of genealogists and record searchers in practically all sections of this country and Europe, will doubtless prove to be the most useful genealogical aid published. It affords local contacts, the lack of which heretofore has been a handicap to a greater number of searchers than any other of the needed facilities in this field.

In card index form, as one phase of The National Clearing House for Genealogical Information, it has already been the means of responding to thousands of requests for references to particular localities, and in printed form its usefulness will be enhanced manifold.

Obviously, its usefulness will increase with the increase in the number of counties and cities represented, and therefore suggestions of names of local genealogists and record searchers, with available information about them and their work, will be thankfully received for registration in future issues of this Handbook.

With few exceptions, the genealogists and record searchers registered have been recommended to The Institute by one or more persons acquainted with them or their qualifications for genealogical work, and they have indicated their willingness to undertake commissions entrusted to them. No name has been included or excluded for any consideration other than fitness reported upon by a reliable sponsor.

Whether the objective is assistance in the compilation of a complete family genealogy, or merely the official record of a birth, baptism, marriage or decease, a copy of a gravestone inscription, a will or a deed, this Register makes an army of genealogists available, and their services may be freely enlisted for every genealogical requirement.

While The Institute assumes no responsibility in the matter it sincerely believes that the recommended genealogists and record searchers included in this Register merit the confidence of the public. Should anyone prove otherwise, his name will be eliminated from future Registers.

For the guidance of the novice in genealogical work a few suggestions may be helpful:

In requesting the aid or services of a genealogist, it should be realized that time is the genealogist's principal stock in trade and must be compensated for. Experience, ability and facilities are the essentials that make time worth more or less per hour, therefore, each genealogist must set his own standard as to the value of his time.

Determine the amount you wish to expend on a search and authorize the genealogist to proceed on an hourly or per diem basis up to the amount decided upon.

Do not ask nor expect a genealogist to guarantee to find the data desired. Nor can he determine definitely in advance how much time will be required to make a search. A conscientious genealogist will not promise to find any item within a given time nor within a stipulated price, unless he already has the information required or knows exactly where it can be procured. Obviously, the time devoted to a search must be compensated for whether results are secured or not.

Specimen form letters and questionnaires for use in correspondence with genealogists are given elsewhere.

GEOGRAPHICAL REGISTER

of genealogists and record searchers throughout America, and abroad

Explanation of the meaning of the letters in parentheses preceding the name:

- | | |
|---|--|
| a —Professional genealogist. | f —Local historian. |
| b —Avocational or amateur genealogist. | g —Official town historian. |
| c —Family genealogist. | h —Official county historian. |
| d —Local searcher of library, church, cemetery and court records. | n —Reported to be an amateur genealogist,
but no other information obtainable. |
| e —Compiles hereditary society lineages. | o —Discourages correspondence. |

The letter-numbers refer to the records arranged alphabetically in the "Who's Who in Genealogy" section. * Indicates county seat.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF HERALDRY

Excerpts from Sir Bernard Burke's History of Heraldry, as it appears in "General Armory of England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales." (A verbatim reprint of the history of heraldry in the above work appears in Number 1 of The Magazine of American Genealogy, which is available in many public libraries or it may be obtained from The Institute of American Genealogy).

"The word Heraldry is derived from the German Heer, a host, an army—and Held, a champion; and the term blason, by which the science is denoted in French, English, Italian, and German, has most probably its origin in the German word Blazen, 'to blow the horn.' Whenever a new knight appeared at a Tournament, the herald sounded the trumpet, and as the competitors attended with closed visors, it was his duty to explain the bearing of the shield or coat-armour belonging to each. Thus, the knowledge of the various devices and symbols was called Heraldry, and as the announcement was accompanied with sound of trumpet, it was termed 'blazoning the arms.' The Germans transmitting the word to the French, it reached us after the Norman Conquest.

"Heraldry may be defined as the art of blazoning, assigning, and marshalling coat armour, or more particularly the art of arranging and explaining in proper terms all that relates or appertains to the bearing of Arms, Crests, Badges, Quarterings, and other hereditary marks of honour.

"At first, armorial bearings were probably like surnames, assumed by each warrior at his free will and pleasure; and, as his object would be to distinguish himself and his followers from others, his cognizance would be respected by the rest, either out of an innate courtesy or a feeling of natural justice disposing men to recognize the right of first occupation, or really from a positive sense of the inconvenience of being identified or confounded with those to whom no common tie united them. Where, however, remoteness of stations kept soldiers aloof, and extensive boundaries, and different classes of enemies from without, subdivided the force of a kingdom into many distinct bands and armies, opportunities of comparing and ascertaining what ensigns had been already appropriated would be lost, and it well might happen, even in the same country, that various families might be found unconsciously using the same arms.

"It has long been a matter of doubt when the bearing of coats of arms first became hereditary. Certain it is that it was not until the Crusades that heraldry came into general use. The earliest heraldic document that has been handed down to us is a Roll of Arms, made between the years 1240 and 1245.

RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS

"In the reign of Henry V. a proclamation was issued which prohibited the use of heraldic ensigns to all who could not show an original and valid right, except those 'who had borne arms at Agincourt.' But, despite the royal ordinance, a multiplicity of abuses found their way into all matters touching descent and arms, which called aloud for reformation and gave rise, in the early part of the sixteenth century, to the HERALDS' VISITATIONS, documents of high authority and value. Royal commissions were issued under the Great Seal to the two Provincial Kings of Arms, Clarenceux and Norroy, authorising and commanding each, by himself or his deputy, to visit the whole of his province as often as he should deem it necessary, to summon before him all those who bore or assumed to bear arms and were styled esquires, to cause them to produce authority for bearing and using same 'to peruse and take knowledge of all manner of coat armour, cognizances, crests, and other like devices, with the notes of the descents, pedigrees, and marriages, of all the nobility and gentry therein and also to reprove, control and make infamous by proclamation, all such as unlawfully, and without just authority, usurped or took any name or title of honour or dignity.' In these documents are set forth the principal hereditary achievements of the kingdom.

"All persons who can deduce descent from an ancestor whose armorial ensigns have been acknowledged in any one of the Visitations, are entitled to carry those arms by right of inheritance. When, however, no such descent can be shown, the party must, if it be possible, prove himself to be descended from someone whose right has been admitted; from a Grantee; or, in fault of that proof, must become a Grantee himself.

"These observations apply more especially to the usage of arms in England."

GLOSSARY OF ARMORY

Verbatim reprint of Sir Bernard Burke's Glossary of Armory and Dictionary of Terms Used in Heraldry, as given in his "General Armory of England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales."

The SHIELD, or ESCUTCHEON,

Is the principal object whereon the emblems or charges of Heraldry are depicted. It varies much in shape, but is depicted triangular, or, as it is technically called, "Heater-shaped," on the oldest monuments, coins, and seals. The surface or space within the bounding lines of the shield is called the Field.

The Shield is divided into the following parts, A B C, the chief, subdivided into A, the dexter, or right hand chief point; B, the middle chief point; C, the sinister, or left hand chief point; D, the collar, or honour point; E, the heart, or fess point; F, the nombril, or navel point; and G H I, the base, subdivided into G, the dexter base point; H, the middle base point; and I, the sinister base point.

The Shield is distinguished by certain heraldic colours called Tinctures, separated by division lines, and charged with a variety of animals, real or fabulous, instruments, and other objects, which themselves bear the designation of charges.

The Tinctures used in Heraldry are metals, colours, and furs.

To Sylvester Petra-Sancta, a celebrated Italian Herald, is assigned the invention of the lines and points by which the tinctures are expressed.

The METALS are—

Or—gold—known in uncoloured drawings and engravings by dots or points.

Argent—silver—expressed by the shield being plain.

The COLOURS are—

Azure—blue—depicted by horizontal lines.

Gules—red—depicted by perpendicular lines.

Vert—green—depicted by lines from the dexter chief to the sinister base.

Sable—black—depicted by cross lines, horizontal and perpendicular.

Purpure—purple—depicted by lines from the sinister chief to the dexter base.

The FURS are—

Ermine—a white field with black spots.

Ermes—a black field with white spots.

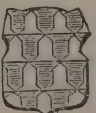

Erminois—a gold field with black spots.

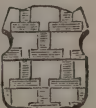

Pean—a black field with gold spots.

Vair—composed originally of pieces of fur, but now silver and blue, cut to resemble the flower of the campanula, and opposed to each other in rows; when of different tinctures, they are specified and described vairé.

Counter Vair—differs from "vair" by having the bells or cups arranged base against base, and point against point.

Potent Counter Potent—is composed of figures like crutches' heads.

Billets. Billets are oblong figures. When they exceed ten, and are irregularly placed, their number is not expressed in the blazon; but the field or charge covered with them is said to be billettée.

The Paile, or Pall, is composed of the upper half of a saltire and half a pale, the latter issuing from the base point of the shield to the centre.

The Gyron, is of a triangular form, composed of two lines, one drawn diagonally from the dexter chief angle of the shield, and the other horizontally from the dexter side, both meeting in the centre.

The Pile (representing a pile used in the erection of military bridges), should contain, if borne plain, one-third of the chief in breadth, and when charged, two-thirds: it issues from the chief and tapers to a point, like a wedge, towards the base.

The Flaunch, or Flanque, is made on each side of the shield, by the segment of a circular superficies drawn from the corner of the chief to the base point.

The Lozenge, is a parallelogram with equal sides, forming two acute and two obtuse angles.

The Mascle, is a Lozenge perforated or voided, so that the field appears through the opening.

The Fusil (representing a kind of spindle used in spinning) resembles the lozenge in shape, but is somewhat longer. The field or charge when divided by diagonal lines dexter and sinister, so as to form fusils all over it, is denominated Fusily. There are two other well known, though not modernly adopted, forms of the fusil, and more characteristic of the spindle which they are intended to represent.

The Roundle, is of a circular form, like a piece of money, and assumes a different name according to its tincture:—

Bezant	Yellow, or Gold.
Plate	White, or Silver.
Torteau	Red.
Pomey	Green, or Vert.
Hurt	Blue, or Azure.
Ogress, or Pellet	Black, or Sable.
Golpe	Purple.
Orange	Tawney.
Guze	Sanguine.

For the origin or meaning of these charges, see them, respectively, in the Dictionary of Terms.

The Annulet, is a ring, the tincture of which must be expressed.

Lozengy, is when the field or any armorial charge is divided by diagonal lines transversely, into equal parts or lozenges, alternately of different tinctures.

The Fret, is composed of six pieces, viz., two long ones in saltire, extending, as a rule, but not necessarily, to the extremity of the field, and four pieces conjoined in the centre in the form of a mascle, interlaced or fretted by those in saltire.

The Bend Sinister is the same as the Bend, excepting that the lines are drawn from the sinister chief to the dexter base.

The Fess is formed by two horizontal lines drawn across the field, comprising the centre third part of the escutcheon. It is emblematic of the military girdle worn round the body over the armour.

The Bar is a diminutive of the fess, and of the same form, containing one-fifth of the field, and may be placed in any part of the escutcheon.

The Cross is composed of four lines, two parallel lines perpendicular, and two transverse, not drawn throughout, but meeting by couples at right angles, near about the fess point.

The Saltire (the Cross of St. Andrew) is formed by four lines, two drawn from the dexter chief towards the sinister base, and the others from the sinister chief towards the dexter base, meeting in the middle by couples in acute angles, and resembling two bends, dexter and sinister, uniting or blending where they cross.

When charges are borne upon ordinaries, they are described "on a fess," "on a chevron," "on a bend," &c., as the case may be. When charges are placed in the position that ordinaries occupy, they are blazoned as "in pale," or "in fess," or "in bend," &c., as the case may be.

The Chevron (supposed by some writers to have been adopted from the bow of a war saddle, which rose high in front) is formed by two parallel lines drawn from the dexter base, meeting pyramidically, about the fess point, two other parallel lines drawn from the sinister base.

SUB-ORDINARIES.

The Border (French, Bordure) was formerly a mark of difference, to distinguish one branch of a family from another. It surrounds the field, occupying one-fifth of it, and is of an equal breadth at every part.

The Orle, is an inner border that does not touch the extremities of the shield, the field being seen within and round it on both sides. It has the appearance of an escutcheon voided, or, as it were, insulated. The Tressure is a diminutive of the Orle.

The Inescutcheon, is a small escutcheon, borne within the shield.

The Quarter, is the space formed by two lines, the one drawn horizontally from the side of the shield to the centre, and the other perpendicularly from the chief to meet it in the same place, and occupies one-fourth part of the shield, as the term implies.

The Canton, derived from cantonée, cornered, is less than the Quarter, comprising only the third part of the chief, and is formed, as the Quarter, by a perpendicular line drawn from the top of the shield, meeting another drawn horizontally from the side. The Canton always occupies the dexter chief of the escutcheon, unless otherwise expressed.

Chequé, or Chequy, is used when the field, or any armorial charge, is divided by transverse lines perpendicularly and horizontally into equal parts or squares alternately of different tinctures, like a chess-board. On ordinaries, chequy must consist of at least three ranges of square pieces.

The earliest representation of the indication of colour by engraved lines, in England, is on the impression of a seal to the death warrant of Charles I.

The old Heralds used more minute distinctions: the Arms of gentlemen, esquires, knights, and baronets, they blazoned by tinctures; those of the nobility by precious stones; and those of emperors, kings, and other sovereign princes, by planets.

Colours and Metals.	Tinctures.	Precious Stones.	Planets.	Names Abridged.
Yellow, or Gold ..	Or	Topaz	Sol ☉	O Or.
White, or Silver ..	Argent	Pearl	Luna ☾	A Ar.
Black	Sable	Diamond	Saturn ♄	S Sa.
Red	Gules	Ruby	Mars ♂	G Gu.

Murrey	Sanguine	Sardonix	Dragon's Tail	San. Sang.

The term Counterchanged (French, de l'un en l'autre) expresses that the field is of two tinctures, metal and colour, and that the charge upon it partakes of both,—the charge, or part of the charge, being of metal, which lies upon the colour; and the charge, or part of the charge, being of colour, which lies upon the metal. “Transmutation, or counterchanging,” says Guillim, “is an intermixture of the several tinctures of the shield and charge, occasioned by the apposition of some one or more lines of partition over the whole.”

It is an inviolable rule of Heraldry, that metal shall never be placed upon metal, nor colour upon colour; that is if the field be of colour, the immediate charge must be of metal, and vice versa, but numerous exceptions to this rule are found, not only in coats of a date anterior to the systematic or scientific arrangement of Armorial Bearings, but in many of foreign origin:

PARTITION LINES.

Partition Lines are those that divide the field or charge; and are always Right or Straight Lines, unless when otherwise described; those that vary from the Right Line are called—

 Engrailed.

 Invected.

 Wavy.

 Embattled, or Crenellée.

 Nebulée.

 Indented.

 Dancettée.

 Raguly.

 Dove-tailed.

To these may be added, those of rarer occurrence, Champagne or Urdé, which resembles an embattled line with the battlements and indentures drawn to a point instead of being cut straight, and Potentée, when the edge of the line resembles the heads of crutches.

Party per Pale. The field, or charge, divided into two equal parts by a perpendicular line.

Quarterly; the field, or charge, divided into four equal parts by two lines, one perpendicular, the other horizontal.

Party per Fess; the field, or charge, divided into two equal parts by a horizontal line.

Party per Bend; the field, or charge, divided into two equal parts, by a diagonal line from the dexter chief to the sinister base.

Party per Bend Sinister; the field, or charge, divided into two equal parts by a diagonal line from the sinister chief to the dexter base.

Party per Chevron; the field, or charge, divided into two equal parts by two lines meeting pyramidically in the fess point, drawn from the dexter and sinister base.

Party per Saltire; the field, or charge, divided into four equal parts, by two diagonal lines crossing each other.

Gyronny of Eight; the field divided into eight equal parts by four lines, two per saltire, and two quarterly.

ORDINARIES.

All charges of Arms are either proper or common; those charges are said to be proper which by a certain property do particularly belong to the art of Heraldry, and are of ordinary use therein; hence they are styled ordinaries; the common charges are the representations of all emblems which retain their own names in the blazon. The term here employed "proper" must not be confused with the similar one (see Dictionary of Terms) which indicates that any heraldic charge in a shield, crest, or supporter, is of its natural colour or nature.

The principal Ordinaries are—

The Chief (called by French Heralds, un Chef, signifying head, from the place it occupies in the shield) is the whole upper part of the field, cut off horizontally by a straight or any other of the partition lines used in Heraldry, and should comprise a third part of the escutcheon.

The Pale is formed by two lines drawn perpendicularly from the top to the base of the escutcheon, comprising a third part of the field. "The French," observes Mackenzie, "say that soldiers of old carried pales of wood to encamp them, which they fixed in the earth," and thus originated this heraldic bearing.

The Bend (Baltheus) is formed by two lines drawn diagonally from the dexter chief to the sinister base, and comprises the third part of the shield. It represents a shoulder-belt, or scarf.

The Goutte, is the representation of a drop of liquid, and assumes a different name according to its tincture. When yellow, it is called goutté, or gutté, d'or; when white, goutté d'eau; when red, goutté de sang; when blue, goutté de larmes; when green, goutté de vert; when black, goutté de poix. If a field, or charge, be covered with more drops than ten, it is termed goutté d'or, de larmes, de poix, as the case may be.

THE APPENDAGES OF THE SHIELD.

The Helmet, Mantling, Wreath, Crest, Supporters, and Motto.

The Helmet, Helme, Casque, or Morion, has varied in shape in different ages and countries. The most ancient form is the simplest, composed of iron, of a shape fitted to the head, and flat upon the top, with an aperture for the light. This is styled the Norman Helmet, and appears on very old seals, attached to the Gorget, a separate piece of armour which covered the neck. In the twelfth century, a change was made to mark the rank of the individual bearer.

The Helmet assigned to Kings and Princes of the Blood Royal, is full-faced, composed of gold, with the beauvoir divided by six projecting bars, and lined with crimson.

The Helmet of the Nobility is of steel, with five bars of gold: it is placed on the shield inclining to a profile.

The Helmet of Knights and Baronets, is the full-faced steel helmet, with the visor thrown back, and without bars.

The Helmet of Esquires, always depicted in profile, is of steel, with the visor closed.

Each of these Helmets is placed immediately above the escutcheon, and supports the wreath on which is the crest.

MARKS OF CADENCY.

Differences, or Marks of Cadency, are the distinctions used to indicate the various branches or Cadets of one family. The eldest son during the lifetime of his father bears a Label; the second, a Crescent; the third, a Mullet; the fourth, a Marlet; the fifth, an Annulet; the sixth, a Fleur-de-lis; the seventh, a Rose; the eighth, a Cross moline; the ninth, a Double quatrefoil.

DICTIONARY

TERMS USED IN HERALDRY.

Abased (abaîsé) is applied to an ordinary borne below its usual position.

Abatements, marks of degradation of coat armour, of which heraldic writers enumerate nine.

Accollé (the same as gorged, which see).

Accosted, side by side.

Accrued, grown to maturity.

Acorned, bearing acorns.

Addorsed, placed back to back.

Affrontée, full-faced.

Aislé, winged.

Alant, or aland, a mastiff dog with short ears.

Allerion, an eagle without beak or feet.

Amethyst, a precious stone, formerly used to express purple.

Ancred, or anchored, applied to a cross, of which the four extremities resemble the flook of an anchor. See under Crosses.

Annulet, a ring.

Antelope, the animal of that name.

The heraldic antelope is represented somewhat differently as shown on the annexed cut.

Appaumé, the hand open, presenting the palm, and the fingers and thumb at full length.

Argent, silver or white.

Armed. All birds which have talons and bills that aid them to seize and rend their prey, are in blazon said to be armed when those weapons differ in tincture from their bodies. But to swans, wild geese, and other birds without talons, the word armed does not apply. They, in like case, are termed beaked and membered. Beasts are also described as armed, when their horns or hoofs are of another colour than their bodies.

Arraché, same as Erased.

Arrondie, made circular or round.

Assis, same as Sejant.

Achievement, a term used for a fully marshalled coat, but generally for a funeral hatchment.

Attired, is applied to the horns of animals of the deer species, instead of armed, as they are supposed to wear their antlers not as weapons, but ornaments.

Attires, the horns of a buck.

Azure, blue.

Bailloné, applied to a lion holding a staff in his mouth.

Balista, an engine to throw stones and darts, also called a Swepe.

Banded, encircled with a band or ribband.

Bar. See p. xxxi.

Barbed, is derived from the French word "barbé." The five leaves which appear on the outside of a full-blown rose are, in Heraldry, called the barbs, and thus blazoned, a rose gu. barbed and seeded ppr.

Barnacles, instruments used by farriers to curb horses.

Baron and femme (per), impalement of the arms of husband and wife.

Bars-Gemel, two bars or barrulets placed parallel to each other, the word Gemel being derived from "Gemelli," twins.

Barrulet, a diminutive of the bar.

Barry and barruly, describes the field or charge, divided by lines horizontal.

Basilisk. An heraldic monster, resembling in shape the wivern or cockatrice, but having, at the end of its tail, the head of a dragon.

Basnet (basinet), an old name for a helmet.

Baton, derived from the French word baston, staff or cudgel, and generally borne as a mark of Bastardy. It does not go from side to side of the shield as the bend does; but is couped in the form of a truncheon.

Battering-ram, an instrument used by the ancients to beat down the walls of a besieged city. See p. xxxiv.

Morse, a sea-lion.

Mortar, a piece of ordnance or chamber-piece.

Morticed, square pieces let one into the other.

Mortier, a cap of state.

Motto, a word, saying, or sentence adopted at pleasure, and borne on a scroll under the coat armour, and sometimes over the crest. Mottoes occasionally allude to the name of the bearer; thus, "De monte alto" is the motto of the family of De Monte Alto, Montalt, or Maude; often to the bearings; and more frequently are short, quaint sentiments, according to the whim or caprice of the person who first adopted them, or in allusion to some particular actions or circumstances they are meant to perpetuate. See p. xv.

Moulted, the same as Eradicated.

Mound, a corruption of the French word monde, or Latin, mundus, the world; a name given in heraldry to a ball or globe, encircled with a horizontal band, enriched with diamonds and precious stones, from the upper edge of which springs a semicircular band, enriched in like manner, and having on the top a cross. The mound forms part of the regalia of an emperor or king.

Mount. When the bottom or base of the shield is represented green, as a field, and curved somewhat semicircularly arched, it is then called a Mount vert.

Mountain-cat. See Cat-a-mountain.

Mounted, a term applied to a horse bearing a rider.

Mounting, expresses that position in animals of chase which rampant does in those of prey.

Mourned (morné), blunted.

Mullet, the rowel of a spur; English heralds make it of five straight points; French heralds of six; when borne of six, eight, or more points, the number should be expressed in the blazon. The best authorities consider when it has more than five points it should be described as a star.

Mullet-pierced, same as the mullet; but is perforated in the centre, allowing the tincture upon which it is borne to appear through it.

Murallé, walled, or embattled and masoned.

CHILDREN OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

Founded 1895. Objects: The objects of this society shall be the acquisition of knowledge of American history; to help to preserve the places made sacred by the men and women who forwarded American Independence; to ascertain the deeds and honor the memories of children and youth who rendered service during the American Revolution; to promote the celebration of all patriotic anniversaries; to hold our American flag sacred above every other flag on earth; and to love, uphold, and extend the institutions of American liberty and patriotism, and the principles that made and saved our country.

Membership: Any girl under eighteen years or boy under twenty-one years of age may be eligible for membership in this society who is lineally descended from a man or woman who with unflinching loyalty rendered material aid to the cause of American Independence as a soldier, sailor, civil officer, or recognized patriot in one of the several colonies or states, or of the United Colonies or States.

Secretary, Miss Adimee E. Powell, Memorial Continental Hall, Washington, D. C.

CINCINNATI, SOCIETY OF THE

Founded 1783. Objects: The following principles shall be immutable and form the basis of the Society of the Cincinnati: An incessant attention to preserve inviolate those exalted rights and liberties of human nature, for which they have fought and bled, and without which the high rank of a rational being is a curse instead of a blessing. An unalterable determination to promote and cherish, between the respective States, that union and national honor so essentially necessary to their happiness, and the future dignity of the American Empire. To render permanent the cordial affection subsisting among the officers. This spirit will dictate brotherly kindness in all things, and particularly, extend to the most substantial acts of beneficence, according to the ability of the Society, towards those officers and their families, who unfortunately may be under the necessity of receiving it.

Membership: A person who is the primogenitive representative of an officer in the Continental Line who served in the War of the Revolution.

Secretary, John Collins Daves, 136 W. Lanvale St., Baltimore, Md.

THE COMPENDIUM OF AMERICAN GENEALOGY

The Standard Genealogical Encyclopedia of
The First Families of America

From the first settlement in America, more than 300 years ago, no attempt has heretofore been made to preserve American genealogical records, except in privately printed, individual family genealogies, or in the restricted lists of members of hereditary and patriotic societies. These volumes, now numbering many thousands, are invaluable. Here, however, is the first attempt ever made to compile a national genealogy designed to take its place as the recognized standard reference work for the United States, such as are the century-old genealogical works of countries of the Old World.

If this work had been begun two hundred, or even one hundred years ago, the task would have been comparatively a simple one. In 1790, the population of the United States was 3,929,214, and, at the ratio prevailing at that time of about six persons to a family, there were about 654,869 families, practically every one of which was of Colonial or Revolutionary ancestry, and therefore potentially First Families of America. In 1930, the continental population was 122,698,190, and at the present ratio of 4.3 persons to a family, there are about 28,534,460 families in the United States. The enormous increase in population between the years mentioned serves to illustrate that the longer the compilation of this national genealogy was delayed the greater would have been the difficulties in compiling it.

The work of creating a national genealogy might properly have been undertaken through the combined action of all the hereditary and patriotic societies of the country, as the avowed objects of these organizations are, among other things, to preserve historical and genealogical records and to foster Americanism. The tenets for which they stand may be defined as the National Spirit, and this work, embodying, as it does, the records of patriotic service, self sacrifice and noble achievement, might have been their crowning achievement of national service.

However, it remained for the catastrophe of the greatest war in history to compel official compilation of data pertaining to contemporary Americans as a war measure. Participation in the World War by the United States made necessary a source of information for furnishing the lineages with their inter-marriages of large numbers of men and women who were, or desired to participate in the various war activities at home and abroad.

The necessity for such information demonstrated the urgent need for an authoritative genealogical work of national character, one which could be accepted as the standard for the nation. Thus, this work was born of necessity to meet a crisis, and it is in the spirit of national service that the work is being carried out. The names, files and voluminous data compiled during the war are the foundation upon which it is based, and it is for these names that data are now being compiled.

A conception of the monumental task involved in this compilation may be had when it is realized that it required nearly seven years (1917-24) of most painstaking labor to complete Volume I, published in December, 1924. It contains over 5,000 records and upward of 10,000 lineages, comprising 1,148 pages.

Volume II, published in December, 1926, contains over 1,600 records and upward of 5,000 lineages, comprising 628 pages. In this volume effort was directed toward completeness of lineages rather than toward including a large number of records, with the result that, in Volume I the records average 2 lineages, whereas in Volume II the records average about $3\frac{1}{2}$ lineages.

Volume III, published in December, 1928, contains over 2,000 records and upward of 6,000 lineages, comprising 810 pages.

Volume IV, published in December, 1930, contains over 2,000 records and upward of 8,000 lineages, comprising 912 pages.

The Fifth Volume, entirely new and complete in itself, is now in course of preparation and will be published at an early date. It is for this volume that data are now being compiled.

Additional volumes, each complete and independent in itself, will be issued annually after 1932.

A work of such large proportions will probably cover the span of two generations, but the progress achieved within the comparatively short period since the World War, already gives it the distinction of having compiled and published a larger number of lineages than all the other general genealogical compilations combined during the first three hundred years of American history. With its total of more than 29,000 lineages already published and the combined indexes listing upward of a quarter of a million names of ancestors, it is unquestionably the first reference and research source in American genealogy.

The work is now generally accepted as the Standard Genealogical work for the nation by patriotic, hereditary, genealogical and historical societies; by librarians, newspapers and periodicals, and by thousands of individuals throughout the country. Literally, thousands of endorsements are on file.

The fact that The Compendium of American Genealogy is under the same editorial direction that for twenty-five years maintained Who's Who in America as the standard work of its kind, is assurance that the same high character will be maintained for this work.

Lineage is the prime requisite and basis upon which names are selected for inclusion but careful discrimination in the selection, based upon experience covering a period of more than twenty-five years in the selection of names for Who's Who in America, enables the editors to restrict the list to those families, which, by virtue of honorable lineage, established position, and achievements worthy of their forebears, are the recognized "first families" in their respective communities.

Twenty-one numbers of The Magazine of American Genealogy have been published to date (January 1932). They include about 6,500 surnames from Aagard to Barret.

New members have the option of beginning their subscription with Number 1 and to receive a consecutive number each month or to begin with the current number and continue.

Number 1 is the basic number of the series; it contains the sectional title pages, explanatory prefaces, source references and abbreviations, which are the "keys" to the system employed in this work and to the data in all succeeding numbers; these will be of aid to anyone interested in genealogy.

Numbers 1 and 2 contain a reprint of Burke's History of Heraldry, Glossary of Armory and Dictionary of Terms used in Heraldry.

Number 3 begins the alphabetical list of illustrations and blazonry of Coats of Arms.

MEMBERSHIP EMBLEMS
FOR GENEALOGICAL CORRESPONDENCE

Genealogical correspondence differs from the usual business and social correspondence and should be treated as a specialty.

It is suggested that every member of The Institute utilize the distinguishing mark of The Institute's membership emblem on all letters pertaining to genealogy.

For this purpose the above emblem has been die-cut, handsomely embossed on gold paper, and gummed so that it may be attached to stationery as required, simply by moistening the back.

The use of this emblem on letterheads will serve to acquaint your correspondents with your active interest in genealogy as a member of The Institute. Certainly, it should result in closer personal co-operation between members.

These emblems will be furnished gratis to members of The Institute upon application.
